Breakaway Selected for SAMA's Mosaic Arts International 2007

(Mesa, AZ) The Society of American Mosaic Artists (SAMA) is pleased to announce that Mosaic Arts International 2007, the organization's annual juried mosaic exhibition, will open at the Mesa Arts Center March 20th and continue through April 29th. The exhibit will feature 62 pieces selected from 397 entries by artists from six countries.

New Jersey artist Rhonda Heisler was selected to exhibit Breakaway, an abstract composition that reflects Heisler's fascination with the color, patterning, and textural properties of fine handcut opaque and metallic stained glass. This is the artist's fourth appearance in the SAMA show.

Each year, SAMA invites internationally recognized jurors to select works submitted by the membership that showcase the best in contemporary mosaics.

"This exhibition demonstrates the tremendous quality of work being produced by mosaicists from around the world and the breadth of subject matter being explored—abstract and representational, functional and decorative," said SAMA President Nancie Mills Pipgras. "Our members' innovation and mastery of mosaic techniques should make our 2007 Mosaic Arts International Exhibit a must-see."

Rhonda Heisler Mosaic Art is a source for one-of-a-kind and custom mosaic fine art.
